In the know...

In WW2 Stalin had an idea to invade Japan – by tunnel. He gave orders to build tunnels for troop-trains from the Russian mainland, via Sakhalin Island, to Japan. It's estimated over 30,000 men – mostly convict labour – died on the project, which never got further than 8km. On the day Stalin died the workers killed their guards and escaped.

Vladivostok is the terminus of the Trans-Siberian railway and also Russia's major Pacific sea port. As well as the famous Moscow Metro, there's a second "Secret Metro" in parallel with the official system. It was built to enable Party leaders to move-around the city or go to the airport in secret. Its existence is still officially a secret, and the public are unable to see or visit it. Only some eccentric pedestrian subways and illogical station-locations on the main system hint where the secret one is located.

No ordinary trip

At The Russia Experience we like to ditch the clichés, discard the puff and concentrate on what we do best – bringing to life the world's longest train route: the places visited, the encounters made and the realisation of a journey that is both engaging and rewarding.

We continually look at ways of enhancing the Trans Siberian experience, incorporating seasonal considerations (such as the Harbin Ice Festival), providing the historical context (pay a visit to the only remaining Soviet Gulag) or inviting you to savour the diverse cultural influences of indigenous people (sit down with a shaman, or enjoy the Siberian art of throat singing!).

We have no group departures, our advertised dates always operate (barring anything completely out of our control) and, above all, we will tell you it like it is – allowing you to make the right choice from a portfolio of journeys rich in variety and full of memorable experiences. Sorry! We couldn't resist at least one cliché!
